DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on March 17, 2008 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 12, 14 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The opposed legs of the U-shaped distal portion extending outward from the implant-gripping portion at the same axial height appears to be new matter.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3, 5, 8-10, 12, 14 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hayes et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,020,519).

Hayes et al. disclose a spinal rod approximator device (10) comprising an implant-gripping member (14) having a u-shaped distal portion that extends in a direction substantially transverse to a longitudinal axis (A) of a proximal portion of the implant-gripping member (44), where the distal portion includes opposing legs (44, 62), formed on a substantially planar U-shaped member (best seen in Figure 4), that are adapted to be positioned under a distal end of a rod-receiving member of a spinal implant (2); a rod-engaging member (83), comprising of opposed arms (86) each having a rod-receiving recess (88), slidably coupled to the implant-gripping member along the longitudinal axis of the proximal portion at a position proximal to the implant-gripping member, the rod-engaging member having a distal portion that extends transverse to a proximal portion (see Fig. 4); and a pusher member (73) freely-rotatably coupled to at least one of the implant-gripping member and the rod-engaging member and threadably mated to the other one of the implant-gripping member and the rod-engaging member such that the rotation of at least a portion of the pusher member is effective to move at least one of the implant-gripping member and the rod-engaging member with respect to one another. The rod-engaging and implant-gripping members are offset from the sliding axis (as seen in Fig. 1 below). Also, the opposed legs define an opening there between having a central axis that is substantially parallel to the longitudinal axis of the proximal portion of the implant-gripping member. In this example the central axis is defined as running from one leg of the u-shaped distal portion to the other leg. The opposed legs can also be considered to extend at the same axial height.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-3,5,8-10,12,14 and 16 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
